Covid-19 related pupil absence

A quick reference guide for parents and staff (September 2020)

Dear Parents,

During the Autumn Term, children naturally catch colds, get coughs or temperatures. It is therefore understandable that parents are concerned that any illness could be Corona Virus related.

We have had a number of phone calls from parents who are concerned about whether to send their child into school, and if they are unwell whether to book a COVID-19 test.

If your child is unwell for any reason, they should not be in school. They will not enjoy being here and may give their illness to other children; therefore the best place for them is at home.

Symptoms for COVID-19 are:

- A high temperature
- A continuous cough
- Loss of taste or smell

If your child has a temperature of at least 37.6 C, for any period of time however short, they must not return to school until they have had a COVID-19 test and it is negative or they isolate for 10 days. The school reserves the right to ask to see evidence of a negative test before a child is re-admitted back to school.

If a child has cold symptoms, such as a runny nose or a cough (not continuous), but no temperature, they will be allowed back to school once they are well, the school may ask to check your child's temperature before they are re-admitted.

If your child has sickness or diarrhea, they must be off school for 48 hours after the last symptom.
